The first is to spend five minutes a day doing personal development work that will allow you to build a solid foundation and then attack investing with the method of a master, and the second is to have an investment strategy that is dependent upon your own due diligence. If I find a stock that I like, I buy it. If the price goes up, I don't do anything unless the price drops. If it goes down, I don't try to force it back up. If it doesn't do anything, I don't keep buying it. When it goes up or down, I watch it every day, and if it starts moving in an abnormal manner, I'm on it to make sure I don't miss out on a good trade. If you execute your trades on the same level of analysis, it's the only way you can consistently get out of your own way. The Bottom Line There's no easy way to get rich quick with investments. You have to read a lot, learn a lot, follow a strategy, and be diligent in your approach. I'm all for exceptions to the rule, but there's nothing wrong with a well-rounded investing approach if it makes sense for you. Kim Kardashian Hollywood Hack is the latest Kim Kardashian Hollywood Cheat & Q: Sorting with IS NULL I am running the following query: SELECT COUNT() FROM table_name WHERE id IN ('1', '10', NULL) This returns the three rows found in the query, but I want to sort the NULL by the number of rows returned, so I tried replacing NULL with something like this: SELECT COUNT() FROM table_name WHERE id IN ('1', '10', x) But then it returns the row that's NULL, but it doesn't specify the NULL as a returned result... Any ideas? A: You can use the COUNT() OVER (PARTITION BY) clause, which would return one row per partition, where the partition is determined by the ID value: SELECT ID, COUNT() OVER (PARTITION BY ID) FROM table_name WHERE ID IN ('1', '10', NULL) ORDER BY Count(*) DESC Here is a video of my little nieces trying to pass the buck to their
